

Study Skills Class

ver 052717

Based on:

“S.O.A.R Study Skills” program by Susan Woodcock Kruger

This class begins by having each student identify challenges they have experienced related to, note taking, managing the increasing volume of homework, completing assignments, test taking, and organization. Emphasis is placed on helping students understand why meeting these challenges are the keys to their success in school.

We introduce strategies and techniques that can be used to meet the challenges identified in class. Each student is asked to develop a plan that list the challenges they identified and what they will do differently to address each challenge. They will be asked to share this plan with you and commit to implement it during the school year.

Students will leave the class with a copy of the “S.O.A.R Study Skills” workbook by Susan Woodcock Kruger, to reinforce what they have learned along with a “Learning Study Skills” quick reference card to share with you and to help remind them of the key principles of good study habits.
